Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies

BULLETIN No. 29

LAST CALL FOR MOUNT ASSINIBOINE

UIDES and horses for long distance rides cannot be secured at a moment's notice, and we therefore urge those who are figuring on taking part in this year's trail ride to Mount Assiniboine to send in their reservations without further delay to Mr. L. S. Crosby, Western Secretary, Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, Banff, Alberta, Canada. Those who have not already visited Mount Assiniboine should realize that this is the most spectacular trail in the Canadian Rockies, culminating in a combination of Alpine panoramas which cannot be equalled anywhere in North America.

The ride will be in easy stages, with a full day in camp at Lake Magog, so that those who wish to rest can rest under delightful circumstances, and those who wish to visit any of the ten other lakes in the vicinity can do so. There is a level Alpine prairie at the base of the mountain which is admirably adapted for riding, and the Alpine flowers at this time of the year at this elevation will be in full bloom. Here is a chance for unusual photography, and we must remember that the handsome Cup presented by Reginald Townsend, Editor of "Country Life in America," is open for competition once more.

The trails have been shortened and improved since our ride of 1927. They were pretty good even then, and we can confidently look forward to a wonderful ride. Don't delay any longer, but send in your reservations at once. The start is from Banff, July 29.

THE MATTERHORN OF THE CANADIAN ROCKIES

Although Mount Assiniboine was undoubtedly familiar to the Indians who from time immemorial made hunting trips over the passes between the Eastern foothills of the Rockies and the Upper Columbia Valley, the first white man to see this mighty peak was Father de Smet, who in 1845 crossed from Lake Windermere into the Bow Valley over a pass which is known as White Man's Pass. Then came George M. Dawson, of the Canadian Geological Survey, who saw it in 1884 from Copper Mountain west of Banff, and named it after the Assiniboine or Stoney tribe of Indians. Tom Wilson, the doyen of all the guides of the Rockies, conducted R. L. Barrett to the foot of the mountain in 1893, and two years later outfitted a party which included Walter D. Wilcox, one of our former Presidents, on an expedition to the as yet still unconquered monarch. The route selected was by way of Healy Creek and Simpson Pass. It is interesting to read Mr. Wilcox's impressions of Mount Assiniboine on his first vision:

'The majestic mountain,' says Wilcox, "which is a noble pyramid of rock towering above snow fields, was clearly reflected in the water surface. Such a picture so suddenly revealed aroused the utmost enthusiasm of all our party, and unconsciously everyone paused in admiration while our horses strayed from the trail to graze. Continuing once more, we traversed some open places among low ridges covered with beautiful larches. We passed through a delightful region which descended gently for half a mile to a treeless moor, where we pitched camp. Behind us was a clump of trees, before us Mount Assiniboine, and on our left a lake of considerable size, which washed the very base of the mountain and extended northwards in the bottom of a broad valley.

In 1899 Mr. Wilcox made a second visit, accompanied by Henry G. Bryant and Louis J. Steele, who attempted to make the ascent, but it was not till 1901 that Sir James Outram, assisted by two Swiss guides, Hasler and Bohren, reached the snow cornice which comprises the actual summit, where he "peered over the edge of the huge, overhanging crest, down the sheer wall to a great shining glacier 6,000 feet or more below . . . Perched high upon our isolated pinnacle, fully 1,500 feet above the loftiest peak for many miles around, below us lay unfolded range after range of brown-grey mountains, patched with snow and sometimes glacier hung, intersected by deep chasms or broader wooded valleys. A dozen lakes were counted, nestling between the outlying ridges of our peak, which supply the head-waters of three rivers—the Cross, the Simpson and the Spray." (From "In the Heart of the Canadian Rockies.")

The first photographer to make the ascent was Harry Pollard, who gave us some personal reminiscences, narrated with his usual modesty, at the Pow-Wow in Sunshine Valley on the occasion of the first Trail Ride to Mount Assiniboine in 1927.

The Alpine Club of Canada held its Summer Camp at the foot of Mount Assiniboine in August, 1920, during which no less than thirty-five members made the ascent under the guidance of Ernest Feuz and Rudolph Aemmer A number of climbers from the Alpine Club of England were present at this Camp, which was held with the express object of giving a welcome to Alpine climbers who had been on military service in the Great War.

The trail up Brewster Creek has been very much shortened and improved since our last expedition, and there is now a Bungalow Camp near Lake Magog, operated by Mrs. Pat Brewster.

Those who were present at the Trail Riders' Camp in 1927 may remember the unexpected appearance of an English artist, A. C. Leighton, who had come from the Old Country expressly to make this ride but arrived at Banff the day after our departure. Although he had never ridden on horseback before, Mr. Leighton was nothing daunted and made the whole 36 miles of trail in a day, joining our Camp on the shores of Lake Magog. He was so much impressed by the scenery that he returned to the campsite a few days later, and made an attractive series of water-colour sketches. Mr. Leighton has now settled in Canada, and is at the head of the Art School in Calgary, where, according to all accounts, he is doing wonderful work.

The books on the Canadian Rockies written by Walter D. Wilcox are mostly out of print, but can be consulted in any good library and are well worth reading. We hope that some day he will revise them and incorporate them in one convenient volume, illustrated with some of his own truly wonderful photographs. The titles of the books are as follows—all published by Putnams:

Camping in the Canadian Rockies (1896); AGuide Book to the Lake Louise Region (1909); Picturesque Landscapes in the Canadian Rockies (1898);

The Rockies of Canada (1909.)

An excellent summary of the climbs of Mount Assiniboine may be found in Lawrence J. Burpee's "Among the Canadian Alps" (McClelland and Stewart, Toronto).

MOUNT ASSINIBOINE

THE BIRTH OF THE TRAIL RIDERS

As the Secretary is frequently asked to supply a brief history of the origin of the Trail Riders, the following is here printed:

It was in the Summer of 1923 that the Order known as The Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies was founded. H. B. Clow, President of the Rand-McNally Company, of Chicago, who frequently makes riding and camping trips in the Canadian Northwest, spoke so enthusiastically about the spectacular scenery of the Wolverine Plateau, that a party set out from Lake Windermere to verify his description—Reginald Townsend, Editor of "Country Life in America," and Mrs. Townsend, R. H. Palenske, an artist of Chicago, Byron Harmon, who has been exploring and photographing these regions for twenty years, J. M. Gibbon and others, all under the guidance of Walter Nixon, an old-timer of these parts. Eight days were allotted to the trip, but a blizzard on the Wolverine Plateau lengthened it to ten. However, as camp was pitched on an acre-wide carpet of white heather, and nothing is more comfortable than a teepee, everyone was happy. Just when the skies began to clear, someone called out "Buttons," and propounded the scheme of an Order in which buttons of various grades should be given to those who rode fifty, a hundred, five hundred, a thousand or two thousand five hundred miles of trail. Palenske undertook to design the button, and so the Order was founded with a Constitution which specifies that membership should be open to all irrespective of age, sex, creed, color or pro-The first aims of the Order are specifession." fied as:

(a) To encourage travel on horseback through the Canadian Rockies; to foster the maintenance and improvement of old trails and the building of new trails; to advocate and practice consideration for horses, and to promote the breeding of saddle horses suitable for high altitudes: to foster good-fellowship among those who visit and live in these glorious mountains; to encourage the love of outdoor life, the study and conservation of birds, wild animals and alpine flowers; to protect the forests against fire; to assist in every way possible to ensure the complete preservation of the National Parks of Canada for the use and enjoyment of the public; to create an interest in Indian customs, costumes and traditions; to encourage the preservation of historic sites as related to the fur-trade and early explorers, and to co-operate with other organizations with similar aims.

(b) To prepare and circulate maps, descriptions and illustrations of existing and proposed trails, and the country to which they give access in the Canadian Rockies, and to publish from time to time literature pertaining to such trails and the work of this Order.

Article (b) was carried out through the generosity of Mr. Clow, who set his map makers to work on a series of maps which co-ordinated all the existing mapwork done by the Federal and Provincial Governments on bridle trails in the National Parks of the Dominion of Canada. This contribution by Mr. Clow was one for which the Trail Riders cannot be too grateful, for without such a map it would have been impossible to carry on. Mr. Clow has continued to take an interest in the order and has attended several of the Pow-wows. The Song Book contains a ditty in his honour.

The late Dr. Walcott, Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, took a keen interest in the Order and consented to be its Honorary President, although he was already beginning to drop many of the organizations with which he was identified. The first President was Colonel W. W. Foster, of Vancouver, formerly Deputy-Minister of Public Works in the Government of British Columbia with the late Dr. Charles D. Walcott as Hon.-President. The second was J. M. Wardle, Chief Engineer for the Dominion Parks. Then Carl Rungius, N.R.A., one of the foremost artists on this continent, took the chief office and was succeeded by Walter D. Wilcox, of Washington, D.C., well-known writer, photographer and explorer. Then Colonel Philip A. Moore, who was re-elected President for 1932.
